Florida's Northwest Coast is internationally known for its freshwater and saltwater fishing. With at least 20 species of edible game fish always in seasonal runs, there are plenty of opportunities for beginners and pros to wet a line any time of year.

Known as "The World's Largest Fishing Village" and the "Billfish Capital of the World," nearby Destin has a fleet of charter boats always ready for half-day, all-day and overnight trips. For group fishing adventures, a fleet of party boats takes anywhere from 25 to 105 passengers out for all-day or half-day deep-sea bottom fishing. Regular tackle, bait and ice are furnished, and many party boats offer galley service for the fisherman's convenience.

Freshwater fishermen can catch largemouth bass in Sandestin's many stocked ponds, which offer an enjoyable catch-and-release fishing experience. At the Baytowne Marina, fishermen can rent a boat or cast a line right off the main dock for speckled trout, redfish and other Bay catches.
